FORDNEY TARIFF MEASURE TO BE RECONSIDERED

First Important Legislation To Come Before Congress; Vetoed by Wilson

Washington, Mar. 21.—The Fordney emergency tariff bill, precisely as vetoed by former President Wilson will be rushed through congress as the first important legislation of the extra session.

According to the request of President Harding, for passage of a measure designed to help the farmers, asking the protection against foreign competition, Republican members of the house ways and means committee turned about today and voted to revive the Fordney bill after agreeing almost unanimously a week ago not to consider any emergency legislation ahead of a permanent tariff and revenue revision.

Senators Penrose, Smoot and McCumber, conferees from the senate finance committee, agreed to the new program, which it was explained, meets the approval of the president.

From a conference of several members of the house committee, with Senator Penrose, senate finance committee head, came the prediction the bill would be rushed through under a special rule and through the senate possibly under limitation of debate as enforced by cloture.

Six Months Limitation
The new Fordney bill will be presented with a six months limitation but its provisions will expire at an earlier date should the permanent bill be enacted within the six months period.

The house ways and means committee, at the end of an all day session, apparently was in the utmost harmony. Chairman Fordney set forth the final program with everybody expressing approval.

After disposing of the emergency measure in the first few days of the extra session, the house will take up and pass the anti-dumping bill, which will follow the allied measure of fixing an American valuation of goods which must pay ad valorem duty.

Then will come the permanent tariff. The actual work of framing it will begin tomorrow.

Revenue Revision in Senate
While the house is at work on the tariff, the senate finance committee will consider revenue revision and its printed hearing will be available to the ways and means committee, which will write the bill.

"All difference have been ironed out," said Chairman Fordney, "and we now have a definite working plan. It is to be assumed that it meets the approval of the president."

"The Fordney bill," said Chairman Penrose, "will be put through without the crossing of a sword or the dotting of an 'i'."

The president stepped into the light early today when he suggested that an emergency agricultural measure be enacted. The proposal took the committee off its feet.

There were rumblings of discontent among Western members who objected to the idea of going before congress a second time this year to pass a special bill.

When the house meets April 11, there will be three bills awaiting action—emergency tariff, antidumping and American valuation. How soon thereafter the permanent measure might be ready members declined to say. The plan adopted today came as a surprise to the members.

WE COME TO KILL YOU
MINER'S LAST WORDS

Willingburg, Ky., March 21.—"We come to kill you," George Miller, with drawn revolver, is reported to have remarked as he entered the home of R. C. Thompson, his neighbor, at Ulup.

Thompson was too long to carry the Miller, Thompson, by a revolver, his own revolver from Thompson's hand. Miller lived only a few minutes.

FALSE FIRE ALARM

That Hartford's huckster fire brigade does not sleep on the job was again proven, late Saturday afternoon, when the alarm was spread that Walter Parks' residence was on fire. The alarm, however, was false and occurred in the following way: Pendleton Hudson, who has an impediment in his speech, called some one over the Farmers' Mutual Telephone, asking him to tell Walter Parks that his horse was out. Miss Gibson, who was operating the switchboard at that time, understood Hudson to say that Parks' house was on fire. In her zeal to be of assistance, she gave the alarm, the court house bell soon pealed out the fire call and within a very few minutes the residence was surrounded by a mass of humanity anxious to assist in putting out the blaze. They were, of course, glad there was no fire and the run was a splendid drill. It is the opinion of many that the people of Hartford can respond to a fire call quicker than those of any other city in the state and from the above and other recent experiences the opinion is probably true.

CALEB POWERS DEFEATS WIFE'S ALIMONY DEMAND

Washington, D. C., Mar. 21.—Former Congressman Caleb Powers, of Barboursville, who served in prison following the killing of Gov. Goebel and who is being sued for a limited divorce by Mrs. Anna M. D. Powers, on charges of cruelty and insufficient support, won the first phase of the divorce proceedings, Justice Wendell P. Stafford, in the district supreme court, declined to grant the wife alimony or allow her undisputed possession of their home here.

The court was informed that despite the charges of brutality made by Mrs. Powers against her husband, the couple were still living together and that she was in no danger of being in want.

Powers, in his answer to the rule to show cause, blamed his domestic troubles wholly to incompatibility of temper. He admitted some shortcomings, but denied her charges of cruelty. He also denied her statements concerning his alleged vast wealth.

GOVERNOR FINALLY OFFERS REWARD FOR MOB MEMBERS

Frankfort, Ky., Mar. 18.—Governor Edwin P. Morrow formally posted rewards of $500 each for the arrest and conviction of members of the mob which on March 13, took Richard James, negro, from the Woodford county jail at Versailles and lynched him.

Judge Writes Governor

Versailles, Ky., Mar. 18.—Offering a reward for the apprehension of members of the mob which lynched Richard James, a negro, here, is not contingent on a request from the county or circuit judge, according to a letter written here by County Judge Mulvey, to Governor Edwin P. Morrow. A court of inquiry as requested by the governor is not advisable at this time in view of the fact that the grand jury has been called into special session on March 26 to investigate the lynching, the judge also stated.

A. T. HERT REFUSES AMBASSADORSHIP

Washington, March 21.—A. T. Hert, Republican national committeeman from Kentucky has declined an ambassadorship and an invitation to act as President Warren G. Harding's representative on the joint Congressional commission now studying methods of reorganizing the executive departments. This was brought out in correspondence between Mr. Harding and Mr. Hert, made public at the White House.

INFANT DIES

Nancy Louise, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hunter, of Centertown, died last Sunday, at the age of 8 months. Heart failure was the cause of the death. Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. at the residence after which the body was laid to rest in the cemetery.

STATE FACES BIG REFUND ON SALOON LICENSE FEES

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Are Involved As Result of Suit

Louisville, Ky., Mar. 21.—The State of Kentucky may be forced to refund hundreds of thousands of dollars to former saloonkeepers whose licenses were terminated by the wartime prohibition law. This question will be forced to an issue as a result of a suit filed in the Franklin County Circuit Court, Frankfort, yesterday by Hugh D. Odom, 2117 Napoleon Boulevard.

Mr. Odom seeks to recover $133,333 from the State Auditor on the ground that this is the proportionate part due him of the $200 State saloon license fee paid by him Mar. 17, 1919. His attorneys are S. A. Anderson and Judge Ed C. O'Rear.

Charles I. Dawson, Attorney General, said last night there is no previous case in point on this question but that he would fight the case in all courts for the reason that the State law provides that all taxes paid when not actually due shall be refunded. The tax paid by Mr. Odom, he contends, actually was due and therefore should not be refunded.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Dawson were in conference in Frankfort Friday in regard to the case, Mr. Anderson said last night, but the result of their conference was not announced.

This is the first suit filed in Kentucky to recover the fee involved in an unexpired State license. Several similar suits have been filed in Louisville to recover part of city license fees. No action has been taken on any of these cases, but that of F. L. Boom against the City of Louisville was set yesterday for hearing Wednesday in the court of Judge Kirby after a demurrer had been filed by the city. These cases probably will be decided within the next ten days.

Similar cases, allowing the saloonkeeper to recover a portion of his fee, have been decided in Oklahoma and Nebraska under State prohibition laws. Mr. Anderson said last night, in Kentucky, under the local option law, several cases have been decided where the saloonkeeper was allowed to recover.

One section of the State local option law provides for a refund in case a saloonkeeper surrenders his license voluntarily, and this point seems to be established firmly in Kentucky law. Mr. Anderson declared. Cases in point, under other but similar laws, are to be found in the decisions of the Court of Appeals as far back as 1882, when a saloonkeeper of Owensboro sued for and recovered the part of the fee involved in his unexpired license.

More than $100,000 is represented by suits pending against the City of Louisville, and more than double this amount is expected to be the total of refunds if the suit of Mr. Odom is allowed. The city saloon license is $1,000 and that of the State $200. The length of time the various plaintiffs held their city and State licenses varies from nine months to one week. Under the latter period the dealer would be entitled to recover almost the full amount of the fee.

The decision in the case of Mr. Odom probably will not affect the wholesale liquor dealers of the State. Their licenses were not terminated by the wartime prohibition law, and, under Federal supervision, they are allowed to continue in business at present.

TRACTOR KILLS FARMER

Calhoun, Ky., March 21.—Leland Harris of the Sacramento country, was accidentally killed when a tractor he was operating reared up in front and turned over, pinning him beneath three tons of metal.

He lay there three hours under this weight before he was found by his little nine-year-old sister, who immediately spread the alarm. The body was badly mangled and Dr. Moore the physician, stated Harris was instantly killed.

He was the son of Thomas Harris, twenty-three years of age and

CLARA HAMON FREED AT END OF SORDID TRIAL

Morbid Crowd Showers Congratulations on Woman When Freed By Court

Ardmore, Okla., March 20.—Clara Smith Hamon was acquitted of a charge of having murdered Jake L. Hamon, Republican national committeeman from Oklahoma, and millionaire railroad and oil promoter.

The jury was given the case at 4:30 p. m. and returned to the courtroom 10 minutes later, B. F. C. Laughridge, 73-year-old foreman, said only one ballot was taken, a secret one, confirmed by a rising vote.

Clara Hamon obtained the information fully seven minutes before the verdict was rendered in open court and sat, surrounded by members of her family, half smiling, half afraid to believe the odds of assurance that were bent toward her.

When Judge Thomas W. Champion mounted the bench and received an affirmative response to his question: "Gentlemen, have you reached a verdict?" her eyes followed intently the motions of the hall as he received the verdict from Mr. Laughridge, walked across the courtroom and handed it to the clerk, who read it in a nervous, falsetto voice.

OHIO COUNTY'S WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS FAMOUS

That it pays to standardize in poultry raising is strongly demonstrated by the results obtained in the raising of White Plymouth Rocks in Ohio County. Some time ago the White Rock was decided upon as being the breed of chicken best suited for this section, and in the past year or two many have standardized their flocks and Ohio County's White Rocks are becoming famous.

Within the past three weeks the county has received orders from Ballard county alone for more than 500 sittings of White Plymouth Rock eggs and the demand can scarcely be supplied. Reports from several who started the standardization work under the direction of Mr. Browder, former County Agent, show that they have been shipping 2 or 3 baskets a week to the Bank at LaCenter, Ky.

Since the demands for eggs have become so numerous, every White Rock raiser in the county whose name could be obtained has been notified.

GO TO LEXINGTON FOR PUREBRED CALVES

Assistant County Agent B. B. McInteer, of Hartford, and Mr. Leonard Wallace, of Rosine, went to Lexington, Ky., last week, for the purpose of purchasing 24 head of registered Holstein calves from the Dr. Bailey stock farm. The calves are 6 months old and cost about $50 apiece. The regular price for these calves is from $150.00 to $200.00 but as they are to be used in Junior Club work, Dr. Bailey made this concession.

Only three clubs have been organized so far. These are at Rosine, E. No Creek and Chapman. The Bank of Hartford and Beaver Dam Deposit Bank are assisting in the plans for this club work and offer to take the note of any members who are unable to pay the purchase price of calves.

DAWES' 'HELL AND MARIA' IS FEDERAL 'BEST SELLER'

Washington, March 18.—Congressional authorities agree that Charles G. Dawes of Chicago is the author of the Government printer's "best seller."

The supply of copies of his testimony, before the House War Investigating Committee, it was learned has long been exhausted, yet demands still pour in by every mail. Everybody, including dignified members of the Senate, sought to read the lurid remarks.

PRESIDENT HARDING RE- CHIEVES FOREIGN ENVOY

ambassador at the White House. The conference is understood to have had to do with several international subjects of mutual interest to the United States and Japan.

J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, was received by Mr. Harding and the president is expected to confer with other principle foreign envoys in the near future.

The following visiting attorneys were in attendance at Court last week: Hon. George S. Wilson, Louis I. Igleheart and Albert Oberst of Owensboro and G. K. Byers, of Louisville.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS PRESENTED THIS MONTH

Diverting from an old established custom the Juniors and Seniors of Hartford High School will present their plays this month instead of Commencement week. The Juniors have announced their date as Thursday night, March 24 and the Seniors, one week later, Thursday night March 31.

From all reports both plays are good and it is to be hoped that a large audience will be present to show the city's appreciation of the efforts put forth by these youthful performers.

JESSE SARVER IS PLACED UNDER BOND

KENTUCKY LAND VALUES SLUMP IN PRICE

Improved Acreage Off From $85 to $65, Report Shows; Grain
Supply is Large

Frankfort, Ky., March 18.—On account of the mild winter, decline in prices and reduction in livestock holdings, Kentucky farmers have an unusually large amount of corn and oats on their hands this spring, according to the March crop report issued jointly by Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna and the United States Bureau of Crop Estimates. Land values, the report says, have fallen sharply the last year.

Of last year's Kentucky corn crop, 50 per cent (or 50,320,000 bushels) was still held by farmers March 1, 1921, compared with 36 per cent of the 1919 crop (or 29,700,000 bushels, on farms March 1, 1920).

About 15 per cent of Kentucky's 1920 wheat crop (or $42,000 bushels) was held on farms March 1, 1921, compared with 11 per cent of the 1919 crop (or 1,138,000 bushels) on farms March 1, 1920.

Of the 1920 Kentucky oats crop, farmers held 36 per cent (or 2,961,000 bushels) March 1, 1921, compared with 25 per cent of the 1919 crop (2,475,000 bushels) held March 1, 1920.

About 10 per cent of Kentucky's 1920 barley crop (or 11,000 bushels) was still on farms March 1, 1921, compared with 20 per cent of the 1919 crop (or 29,700,000 bushels) on farms March 1, 1920.

Land values, according to reports from farmers' and others throughout Kentucky, have fallen since March 1, 1920, from an $85 average for improved farm lands a year ago to $65 March 1, 1921, and from a $62 average for unimproved farm lands a year ago to a $46 average March 1, 1921.

The average value reported this spring for poor plow land is $33, compared with $42 a year ago; good plow land $75, compared with $95 a year ago, and average of all grades of plow land $53, compared with $70 March 1, 1920.

As there have been comparatively few sales the last several months these estimated values are based partly on last fall's sales and prices at which farmers are now holding, these estimates being, therefore, largely visionary.

The average cash rent paid for Kentucky farms, where an entire farm was rented in 1920, was reported as $9.16 and the average size of such rented farms as 112 acres. Where plow lands alone were rented for cash, the average cash rent was $9.70 an acre.

FARM EXTRACTS

INFORMATION FROM THE EXPERIMENT STATION—AGRICULTURAL PAPERS AND THE COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

A cow has to be some cow to be a guest at the leading hotel of a city of more than a quarter of a million people!

Tilly Alcartra, while en route from Seattle to her home at Woodland, California, was a guest of honor at the Hotel Benson, and was officially welcomed by the mayor of the city of Portland, Oregon.

Tilly, be it understood, is a world champion. She is the only cow in the world that—so far as known—has produced over thirty-three thousand pounds of milk in one year. Photographers from all of the leading Portland dailies were on hand to take Tilly's picture as she ate her lunch of beet pulp and ground barley. Above the click of the silverware could be heard the click of the moving-picture man as he filmed Mayor George Baker milking the uncrowned queen of the bovine world.

It was Tilly's red-letter day. Mounted on a decorated lorry, she had paraded the streets, preceded by the Washington High School band, and then had been escorted in state to the crystal dining-room of the Hotel Benson, where she received an enthusiastic reception.

But Tilly is growing accustomed to this kind of thing. She stopped off at Portland, also, for a brief visit with the Portland Advertising Club. While her owner described her pedigree and past performances, and noted breeders paid tributes to her merits, Tilly devoted her entire attention to her lunch. One of her attendants filled to the brim a huge tin pail with her milk, which in charge of a dainty maid, was served to the guests; and when the flow of milk and oratory had ceased, a crown of flowers was put about Tilly's horns.

That evening it was my good fortune to spend an hour or so with A. W. Morris, her owner, and his son, Frank. "Yes, I am proud of Tilly," said Mr. Morris, "proud that it has been my good fortune to be the owner of the world champion. Some time ago I received an offer of twenty-five thousand dollars for her, but of course I refused it."

"Tilly, I might say, is the climax of our success as cattle raisers. I got into the business of cattle raising when, as a young man, I went West from Pennsylvania. That was not so very long ago, as time goes, and yet I remember that my wife and I had to make a bed out of shavings and ticking on the emigrant train we traveled in. I secured a job on a stock ranch. I had to plow most of the time; but before going to work I had to milk fourteen cows; so Tilly, you see, is not the only cow I have milked, by any means."

"The story of how we happened to get hold of Tilly is rather an unusual one."

"Frank and I went out to the McKay Brothers' place, near Waterloo, Iowa. Every stockman knows of these two brothers. Their herd of Holsteins is famous. I wanted to buy a yearling, but Mr. McKay shook his head and said, 'No, we have none for sale.' I bought some two-year-olds."

Finally I said, 'Won't you sell me at least one yearling?' He pointed to the field and said, 'There is a yearling you can have for three hundred dollars.'

"Frank and I went out to look at her. We looked at the other yearlings in the field, and I said to Frank 'If I had my choice of all of them, I would have picked this one. I wonder why he offers us the best one of the bunch for this price!' We lost no time in paying him the three hundred dollars."

"When Tilly was six years old, in the seven-day test she produced five hundred and ninety-seven pounds of milk, which means more than twenty-nine pounds of butter. We sold her first calf for five hundred dollars. To-day you couldn't buy it back for twenty-five thousand dollars."

"Not long ago we sold one of Tilly's daughters for $11,200. Tilly has had seven calves. Six of them are still living. We have on our place at Woodland three of them. We can get $25,000 for one, but do not care to sell him."

"Tilly had her sixth calf when she was nine years old. On her official seven-day test she made 40.78 pounds of butter from 724.1 pounds of milk. Here she broke the Pacific coast record, for she was the first cow on the Pacific coast to make more than forty pounds of butter in seven days."

"Tilly, by the way, has broken a good many records: She is the only cow that has given forty pounds of butter in one week, to produce over 1,300 pounds of butter in a year. She is the only cow that has five yearly records averaging over 1,100 pounds of butter a year. Tilly has produced over 120,000 pounds of milk in four years.

"Tilly is not only a milk factory, but she is also a mint; for, if you will figure the value of her calves and the value of her produce during the past nine years, you will see that she has returned an exceedingly high interest on a three-hundred-dollar investment. We have, of course, kept careful records, not only of the amount but also the cost of Tilly's feed, and of the value of her milk production."

"Here are some figures from her last yearly record that I believe will interest you:

"During the year she consumed 1,325 pounds ground barley, 1,325 pounds ground oats, 1,325 pounds bran, 1,165 pounds soy-bean meal, 532 pounds cottonseed meal, 200 pounds linseed meal, 2,550 pounds dried beet pulp, 3,000 pounds corn silage, 5,000 pounds alfalfa hay, 21,000 pounds beets, and was in pasture four hours daily for nine months."

"Figuring feeds at the prevailing market prices, and milk at the wholesale price of $2.75 per hundred, which was the average during her record year, Tilly returned $3.17 in milk for each $1 of feed consumed. At $2.75 per hundred, her milk for the year was worth $920; but as a matter of fact it was sold for more than that. She demonstrated her ability to return a profit above feed cost of $2.17 per hundred pounds of milk.—American Magazine."

"Why I Choose Big Type Polands"

For many years I have been breeding and marketing Hogs. They have consisted of spotted hogs, striped hogs, white hogs, red hogs, black hogs, scrub hogs, halfbreeds and purebreds, trying one bred after the other because some colleague opined out its extreme activity, aggressiveness and ability to range, gathering food in far fence corners. They did range, in and out of my fields, in and around my fences, and even to the remote fence corners of my neighbors' fields. They ranged all the flesh off I tried to put on, and finally ranged themselves out of a place on my farm."

Another breed I tried. I was assured it would please. It was distinguished for its disease resisting qualities, and the tenacity of the brood sow going, of course, toward making splendid mothers. They made such tenacious splendid mothers I had to go full armed into the pig pen. So these too were banished.

And now another breed was lauded to the skies for its prolificacy. The breed was prolific, indeed. Pigs were farrowed by the dozens and I waxed courageous and counted profits. But, alas, when one-half of my feeders were ready to market, the remainder were still miserable, small and runty. I have learned the sad lesson that over production never pays and the runt steals the profit from his finer brothers."

Then some wise man talked crossbreeding. Here let me say I did not contemplate burning midnight oil, figuring in geometry, trigonometry and so forth, the percentage of each breeds blood in every gilt and sow I expected to breed to determine whether her matings should be black, red, spotted or white boars. It took all this to convince me.

Since I have been raising Big Type Poland Chinas my troubles seem to be lessening and I am satisfied. This breed, in my opinion is the best all-round breed to-day, seeming to have the advantages. They are hustlers; well, as I once was told, "Forge in to the far fence corners," but the will when satisfied walk calmly to any provided shade, and not race around looking for a week spot in the fence, walking off the gained flesh."

You can carry a big type roughly through any given period, on as little feed, as we say, "Tiding them over," and they will look 50 per cent better at the end of that time than any other breed. They are equally as quick in responding to good treatment. The breed of Hogs has never been originated that will gain more pounds on the same amount of food. They can be fattened at any age and make lard par excellence."

They have gentle nature and are easy to handle. Sows are quiet at farrowing time and tolerant to any attendant they know, making it easy to clean up, handle and mark the pigs, and see after the general welfare of Mrs. Sow and family. Their litters are large as can well be taken care of, the last average being 8.6 pigs to each sow. I would rather raise six to eight pigs, uniform and growthy than a litter with three or four runts to make out the dozen. It is far more profitable. They are a thing of beauty as well as profit. They should bear this slogan, "Big Type Poland Chinas best to produce capital."

Begin with Big Types and you will never have to change your breed.

BOSTON MAYOR SEEKS AND LEARNS REAL CONDITIONS

Boston, March 20.—It was a weary and a tattered Mayor of Boston who went to the City Hall.

Mayor Andrew J. Peters seeking to learn at first hand unemployment conditions and how the city is meeting them, spent the night incognito at Wayfarers' Lodge, where the city shelters the homeless and feeds them in the morning.

In a room with forty unfortunates he lay on a municipal bed and said he slept fairly well. He was roused out at 5 o'clock and sent to the woodpile. After four hours there it was decided he had earned his breakfast, and, after the meal of oatmeal, bread and coffee, he went to the City Hall.

The figure with frayed coat and faded hat was halted at the door of his office and it was not until his secretary saw him that he was recognized and admitted.

Mussed-up raincoat, muddy boots, old brown suit and faded flannel shirt with a faded handkerchief as a neck piece had disguised effectually the former Congressman and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

"Chopping wood is certainly an excellent way to get up an appetite," he said. "The men I saw at the lodge were strong, able-bodied, able to work and, I assume, willing to work."

"I saw absolutely no signs of drink or dissipation. I am most anxious to help to get employment for these men."

"I went up to the superintendent of the lodge, whom I have met there before and wishing to make some pleasant remark, asked him if he didn't know a good many of the persons who went there. He gave me a cold eye and said:

"I don't have to know anyone I don't want to." He was at the door when I left and I said that I would go back some time and that I hoped he would remember me."

GAUZE LEFT IN STOMACH CAUSES DEATH OF VETERAN

Frederickton, N. B.—Thirty-four inches of surgical gauze left in the abdomen of Harry Q. Larlee, of Perth, a world war veteran, after he had been operated upon at Portland, Ore., a year ago for appendicitis, caused his death at the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment hospital.

Larlee failed to recover his strength after the operation, and returning to New Brunswick, became a patient at the soldiers' institution.

A few days ago surgeons decided upon another operation and discovered the gauze. After it had been removed Larlee failed to rally.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF LEGION ADVOCATED BY EDUCATOR

Louisville, Ky., Mar. 20.—Teaching school children Americanism from a broader viewpoint, developing a higher level of general intelligence throughout the nation, giving our soldiers the greater credit due them and encouraging the work of the American Legion and Boy Scouts are some of the things which must be considered in this country if Americanism is to be something more than a wave of patriotism, Zenos E. Scott, superintendent of Louisville public schools, told the Rotary club, of which he is a member, in an address on "Americanism" at the meeting.

KENTUCKIAN URGED FOR WAR DEPARTMENT AUDITOR

Washington, March 20.—Byron Richards of Salyersville was urged for appointment as Auditor for the War Department by Representative John W. Langley, Tenth Kentucky District, in a conference with Secretary Mellon of the Treasury Department. Richards has been employed in the Auditor's office for nearly twenty years.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart of Frankfort is a visitor here. She is interested in educational legislation that will be considered at the special session of Congress.

$100,000 APPROPRIATED FOR SOLDIER MEMORIAL

Nashville, Tenn., March 20.—Appropriation of $100,000 by the Tennessee legislature for the soldier's memorial to be erected at Washington was asserted by legislators to be the first action that a state has taken toward the nation wide movement.

TRIBUTE TO WILSON'S GREATNESS ASSURED

Movement for Perpetual Memorial Launched in New York City

New York, March 20.—A movement was launched here to establish a perpetual memorial in honor of Woodrow Wilson—the man who projected into the world the idea of the league of nations."

After listening to an eulogy of the former president by John Drinkwater, English playwright, some 500 men and women voted unanimously to appoint a temporary committee to work out details of the memorial. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice-presidential candidate in the last election, who presided at the gathering, was appointed chairman of the committee, with Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, treasurer. Although the form the memorial is to take was not definitely decided upon, it was suggested that a minimum sum of $500,000 be raised as a trust fund, the proceeds from which shall be awarded each year to the person who during the year has made the greatest contribution toward international unity.

Mr. Drinkwater's address was frequently interrupted by applause, particularly when he declared that Mr. Wilson "conceived beyond his executive capacity—a thing that is generally true of all great historical figures."

"Most men," said the speaker, "are prone to bow in submission at the first assault of expediency. It is the tragedy and the glory of Woodrow Wilson that he clung tenaciously to his ideal regardless of personal consequences."

"It is generally agreed," he continued, "that his tactics were by no means perfect. But the strategy back of them made one of the greatest contributions to modern civilization."

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

A TRUCK THAT COSTS LESS TO OPERATE

The Ford worm-driven, One-Ton Truck with demountable rims and pneumatic tires, are dependable, as well as serviceable. This, probably more than any other factor, accounts for their popularity. There is no evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Like the Ford car, the Ford One-Ton Truck—Ford-built throughout—has proven itself. In it are combined the Ford principles of simplicity, with strength, lowest first cost, lowest operating cost, durability.

In the city, on the farm, carrying its loads between cities—everywhere you will find the Ford One-Ton Truck doing duty. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers, have come to know it as the truck of utmost service.

Standing guard behind the Ford One-Ton Truck is the Ford Service Organization. The Authorized Dealers, and Service Stations, carry complete assortments of genuine Ford parts and employ Ford mechanics to give service to Ford owners.

Ford—A Business Utility—is a new booklet of solid facts and figures about Ford cars and the Ford One-Ton Truck in business service. Get a copy from the nearest Ford dealer. They are free for the asking.

SEEKS A SIT-DOWN JOB

Washington, March 19.—"Charlie" Patton, the White House gardener, whom President Harding brought with him from Marion, worked so hard getting the grounds in shape for the President's Sunday afternoon walk that he has a sore ankle and is beginning to look with covetous eyes on some job where he of the President's real favorites.

"Charlie" is seventy-nine years young and during spare moments compares the present appearance of the Executive Mansion with what it looked like when he marched past in the Grand Army review. He is one of the President's real favorites.

His latest interest is in a crow that has selected a tree in the White House yard as its nesting place and which paid no heed to Sunday in continuing its home building. The White grounds were never neater than since the Civil War veteran started to tend the flowers and trim the hedges.

Portland, Ore., March 18.—Mrs. Nina Larowe, who was in the party with Mark Twain on the tour in which he based "Innocents Abroad," died here after an illness of four weeks. She had been on the stage in New York and New England as Miss Helen Temple. As a girl she crossed the plains with an immigrant train.

The new Administration has at least one definite policy, judging from the President's selections for members of the Tariff Commission. And strange to say it was not borrowed from the Democrats, but the truth is it is a party heirloom, handed down from the good old stand-pat days of Mark Hanna and "Boss" Quay. Now that the high priest of the High Tariff cult is again officiating in the Temple of Protection at Washington, there is no further need of an unbiased and scientific study of the question of foreign trade and tariffs. Our "infant industries, sometimes called by the untutored workman, "big interests," know what they want and how to get it. Consequently the Tariff Board is being packed with close-mouthed advocates of the highest protection. One of the appointees is secretary of the so-called Home Market Club which advocates exclusion of all foreign-made goods from American markets. Another is the president of a high-tariff organization. It appears to be the beginning of our return to the Aldrich tariff or an effort to kill the Tariff Commission entirely.

From some of our neighboring towns and cities we hear reports of robes and masked regulators and volunteer enforcers of the law. These organizations seem in some cases to have begun from philanthropic or religious motives. In others because of the dereliction of local officers in the enforcement of the law. The motives in all cases seem to be worthy, but the methods pursued are dangerous. Why must their efforts be secret and their operations apparently without the pale of the law. The age of the Ku Klux Klan has rarely passed in Kentucky. Such organizations are only another manifestation of the mob spirit. Civilization depends upon law for justice and protection. We have good laws; let them be enforced. The best service good citizens can render their home community as well as the State and the Nation is to really, sincerely and openly co-operate with the officials in conserving the public weal, instead of organizing in secret, white-caps, "pussy-footing" committees in every block.

The action of Governor Morrow in removing from office the Woodford County Jailor who, apparently without adequate resistance, permitted a prisoner to be taken from his custody by a mob at Versailles on Sunday morning, the 13th. inst., should meet with the hearty approval of every law-abiding Kentuckian. The statute under which the Governor acted was passed to give effect to an Amendment to the State Constitution, and in carrying out the expressed will of the people he only did his duty. The facts of this case or of any instance of the over-riding of constituted authority by mob law are immaterial. It is the principle involved. Many guilty persons are punished by Lynch law, but when too late it is frequently proved that many others are the victims of prejudice, passion and personal hatred. Much could be done to discourage such disgraces to our fair commonwealth by a more sincere co-operation of the Courts and the better class of citizens in the making-out of justice, but there can be no extension of the conduct of an officer who offers no resistance to the perpetration of such an outrage on justice.

Why is it that the partisan enemies of Woodrow Wilson hate him so? Even in his defeat and illness, they cannot find one generous, not even just. But he has already "gone down justified." Within three weeks of his inauguration, President Harding has already adopted five of the most important features of his predecessor's foreign policy viz: in regard to the Allied mandates, the retention of the American forces in Germany, Mexico, the Island of Yap and the Colombian treaty. The man Wilson may be in retirement, but his labors and spirit are immortal. He has truly gave himself for his country as any hero of the trenches. He gave what he had of intellect and health for me, and for each of you. "Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his friend."

TWO WOMEN THROWN TO DEATH IN SALT RIVER

Harrodsburg, Ky., March 20.—Mrs. R. S. Mayes, 65 years old, and Miss Mabel Lyons, 22, Kirkwood, this county, were instantly killed when a horse they were driving to a buggy became frightened at a train, backed over a twenty-foot embankment into Salt River at Harrodsburg and fell on top of them. A 7-year-old boy, the grandson of Mrs. Mayes, escaped by jumping. The bodies of the women were lying partly covered by water when those who witnessed the tragedy reached them. Miss Lyons suffered a broken neck and both women were severely cut and bruised.

The women were returning home from a visit at Salina. When they reached the narrow strip of the Sweet Mill Road between the river and the railroad at Harrodsburg the horse became frightened.

Mrs. Mayes was the widow of R. G. Mayes and the stepmother of Deputy Sheriff Oscar Mayes, Anderson county. Miss Lyons was the daughter of John Lyons, farmer. The bodies were taken to their respective homes.

LACK OF FUNDS MAY STOP DAWSON HOSPITAL WORK

Washington, March 19.—A plan to suspend construction of wooden buildings at the Dawson Springs Government Hospital until Congress appropriates additional funds for the erection of permanent fireproof buildings will be presented to the Secretary of the Treasury within a few days. The chief architect of the department is assembling data to be submitted to the Secretary when the matter is sent to him for approval. Representative D. H. Kincheloe, Second Kentucky District, urged officials of the Treasury to halt the construction of wooden buildings until the additional funds could be had.

GIRL, HAIR IN WHEELS, PLEADS NOT TO CUT IT

Burlington, N. J., March 19.—Refusing to permit companions to cut her hair when the strands became caught in the wheels of a shafting above a loom she was operating in a silk mill, Miss Emma Hoffman, 19 years old, hung suspended while rescuers tried to extract the hair until the scalp was torn loose.

Other young women workers fainted. Retaining consciousness despite her suffering, Miss Hoffman pleaded with fellow employees not to cut her hair and they supported her weight while extracting it strand by strand from the pulley.

A physician later found it necessary to remove more of the hair to stitch back the skin and save about twenty square inches of scalp, but he believes the wealth of tresses will not be permanently curtailed.

The lecture was the best delivered here in recent years.

RADIO VAUDEVILLE IS HEARD IN FIVE STATES

Colorado Listens In on Performance Given at Ossining; New Apparatus Success

New York City, Mar. 17.—A wireless vaudeville performance was given in the home of Robert F. Gowen, Overton Road, Ossining, and transmitted by radio telephone to audiences hundreds of miles away so distinctly that, according to Mr. Gowen, they enjoyed it as much as those gathered about the performers.

Gowen is chief engineer of the DeForest Radio Telephone and Telegraph Company, which has a station at High Bridge in New York, where Dr. Lee DeForest, the inventor, and a party of guests overheard the musical numbers, singing and dialect of the professional and amateur entertainers.

Audiences in Connecticut, Ohio, Illinois, Arkansas and Colorado seated about a horn attached to a receiving set, "horned in" on the entertainment. According to Gowen this is the first time a vaudeville program was ever given by radio telephone. The nearest approach to it before, he explained, was the transmission of phonograph selections.

Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, sisters of the cast of Fred Stone's show, "Tip Top," were the headliners. They gave a song routine of their own composition. Charles D. Wagner's orchestra from Manhattan played. Donald Briggs gave a musical act; George Cullen played violin selections, and Frank Sangster offered a monologue. Mr. Gowen directed the show and L. Lounsbury operated the radio apparatus. A new type of equipment was tested out.

R. H. G. Matthews, chief engineer of the Chicago Radio Laboratory received the vaudeville waves in Chicago and relayed them west as far as Colorado Springs.

These vaudeville artists did not have to travel over a circuit to spread their fame. A whole circuit took in the show at the single performance. Connected up with the radio circuit were audiences assembled as follows: With the Rev. J. A. Manning, Salem, O.; with Charles Caudier, in St. Mary's, O.; the Naval Radio Research Laboratories, Washington; with John Clayton in Little Rock, Ark.; with William R. Seigle in Minneapolis and with L. Cockaday at 2674 Bailey Avenue, New York City. There was also an audience listening in at Princeton University and another in Glenbrook, Conn.

The performers stood in front of a wooden chopping-bowl. The sounds they made were reflected into a microphone and then passed through a voice amplifier to the radio phone transmitter and thence carried to the aerial and radiated to other stations. About twenty-five guests of Mr. Gowen were gathered about the performers.

PHYSICIANS DEFY DISEASE

Baltimore, March 17.—Physicians and others of the personnel of the Bacteriological Department of Johns Hopkins Hospital have just submitted to tests of various kinds, in order to throw new light upon the danger of disease germs in the mouth and throat. Dr. A. E. Bloomfield had charge of the tests, his chief conclusion being that the normal surfaces of the air passages afford a very unfavorable environment for foreign organisms to colonize and develop a real diseased condition, though the germs are constantly present.

Those who figured in the tests were at all times exposed to infectious diseases of all sorts, bearing this exposure with entire disregard of personal risk.

KENTUCKY NEWS

Urges Farmers to Organize
Henderson, Ky., March 18.—J. S. Crenshaw, head of the State Farm Bureau Federation, Cadiz, delivered the principal address to a large gathering of farmers at the Court House Tuesday on organization. He said every profession and trade is organized, and that if the farmers would organize and co-operate in collective buying and selling they could realize prices that would make farming profitable.

Uses Toy Pistol; Hold-up Shot
Covington, Ky., March 18.—John Henry Edwards, a negro, attempted a hold-up with a toy pistol. He's in a hospital here now with a bullet in his back. According to the police, Frank Sheridan was confronted by the negro who flashed a gun and demanded that Sheridan "put 'em up." Sheridan saw at a glance that it was a toy pistol and he drew his own weapon and fired as the negro ran.

CRAFTS WILL STRESS WORLDWIDE ARIDITY

Just because Attorney General Palmer ruled that physicians may legally administer real beer to the ailing in case of prescriptions, organizations enlisted in a finish fight against the rum demon will not lessen their efforts to make the world bonedry. Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts of Washington, D. C., Superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, stated in an address at the Park Slope Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn.

Education will be utilized as a weapon of the temperance forces in their battle with such conditions. The International Reform Bureau, he said, is making a special world-wide campaign in ten languages to show the harmfulness of even the most moderate use of mild and pure beer and wine. Life insurance statistics prove, according to leaflets prepared specially, that even moderate drinking cuts off thirteen years from the drinker's life.

HAIL DAMAGE AT PADUCAH $60,000

Paducah, Ky., March 18.—Hail damage in Paducah Tuesday night is estimated around $60,000. Investigation showed that every greenhouse and vegetable hothouse in the county was demolished, and the estimates on broken window panes run from $2,000 to $3,000. Glaziers reported local stocks of window glass entirely insufficient to repair the damage, and heavy shipments are being ordered. In some homes as many as twenty panes were broken.

Fruit trees were battered, and broken shingles, branches and miscellaneous debris pounded into the streets.

Automobile tops by the score were punctured, and closed cars parked about a theater during the storm had their glass shattered and even the enamel on the exterior dented. No resident of the city recalls a hailstorm of such size and duration. Many stones picked up were as large as hen's eggs.

STATE COMMISSION REJECTS HIGHWAY LOANS

County Advancement Not to Be Accepted for Local Aid. Board Decides

Frankfort, Ky., March 18.—No advancements in the form of loans by counties for construction of State highway system projects will be accepted, the State Highway Commission decided after conferring with Attorney General Charles I. Dawson, who explained to the commissioners the opinion of the Court of Appeals in the Hopkins County case.

In that the court held that such an advancement is a debt within the meaning of the Constitution, and the department is limited to the estimated annual income for the current year.

Hopkins County was offering to lend the department $150,000 of its bond issue for construction of the Dixie Bee Line through the county. The court said it could, as the State was not obligated at the time beyond its current road revenues.

Since there are enough counties ready to match dollar for dollar with the State in Federal aid projects to keep the State road fund employed, the commission was of the opinion that the better policy is to decline all local loans.

The question whether counties may contribute their bond issues to the State for use on Federal aid projects will be decided shortly by Judge Thomas, who has before him the suit of County Attorney Thompson of Lawrence County to enjoin the Fiscal Court from thus contributing $150,000 toward the Mayo Trail. Mr. Thompson and a delegation from Lawrence and Johnson were before the commission urging a change in the route designated in Lawrence County, but the commission deferred action until after the suit is decided, as the route of the Mayo Trail would be a mooted question if the court should say the money could not be used for it.

The Flat Fork route of the Midland Trail through Carter County was adopted by the commission. Rivalry between advocates of that route and the one along the Chesapeake & Ohio was thrashed out before the commission. Engineers were of the opinion that the Flat Fork route would save $100,000 in construction cost.

Owen and Henry Counties will be allowed convict labor again this year to complete projects under construction.

RURAL ROUTE MAN IS FOUND DEAD

Dawson, Springs, Ky., March 19.—Jasper Davis, 24 years old, a rural mail carrier, was found dead in his stable with a pistol wound in his lung. A woman near by heard the shot, and when she reached the stable, she told the authorities she found Davis dead and a pistol lying at his feet. The killing is believed to have been an accident.

Davis had recently been married and had lived here only a few months.

A GOOD FRIEND

A good friend stands by you when in need. Hartford people tell how Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test. Miss Emma E. Park, of Washington St., endorsed Doan's four years ago and again confirms the story. Could you ask for more convincing testimony?

"I can certainly praise Doan's Kidney Pills because they are an excellent kidney remedy," says Miss Park. "I suffered with a dull backache and dizziness. Black spots came before my eyes and my kidneys didn't act right. Mornings I got up feeling tired and worn out. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills through the newspapers and started their use. This remedy did me a lot of good and I consider it excellent." (Statement given November 16, 1916.)

On January 25, 1921, Miss Park said: "It is not often I feel the need of Doan's Kidney Pills since I publicly endorsed them in 1916. When I do have a little trouble with my kidneys, a few Doan's never fail to promptly cure me. I am glad at any time to tell others about Doan's."

NAVAL OFFICERS EAGER FOR THE BOMBING TESTS

Many Have Volunteered for Service on Ships to Be Used; Are Perfectly Safe

Washington, March 18.—Navy men are as eager as army flyers to engage in the tests to determine the effectiveness of bombs dropped on surface craft by airplanes. Many officers and men have volunteered to man any surface ship used for the tests. However, since the joint Army and Navy Board's recommendations, which were adopted about a month ago, forbid an actual exchange of shots where personnel is expected they won't get hurt.

Some naval officers would like to have a test with scout planes from ships going up to meet the bombing planes and their escorts, not to mention the use of anti-aircraft guns and other defensive means. This would give an actual war test and not merely a "simulation of actual warfare."

Those in authority, however, decided that the risk in flying 50 to 100 miles to sea will be sufficiently great. The tests are expected to develop data of great importance, although it is admitted they may not be conclusive.

I had just about given up all hope of ever getting well when I decided to try Dr. Fiero's Golden Medical Discovery. Lower Operating Costs

The big problem confronting the business farmer today is "How can I lower my operating costs?"

To this there is only one answer, "Power Farming." You or your father answered it the same way when the scythe was discarded for the mower and reaper.

Two years ago you did not have to answer this question because you could make money no matter how expensive the old methods. But the next year's crop costs will have to be figured on an efficient production basis, the same as any other manufacturer. Samson power points the way out.

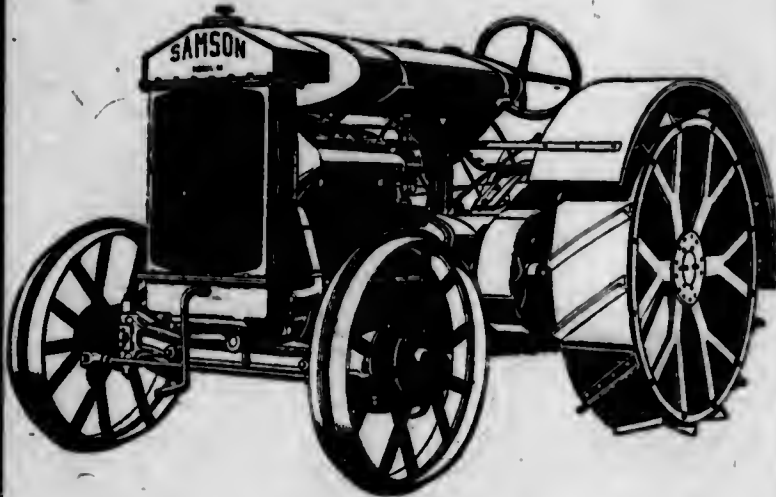

The Samson Model "M" tractor, by displacing horses, saving feed and other expenses, as well as hired help work for silo filling, threshing etc., will give you not only a better and easier means of doing your work but it will cut down your cost of production the same as it has that of your farmer competitor.

Nearly two hundred thousand farmers have purchased tractors during the past year and through use of this power, which is less costly than horse power, have saved money, time and labor. The tractor will do for you what it has done for them.

Your business rests with you. It is a question of profit or loss. You, as a business farmer, can not afford to operate at cost or at a loss. You must make a profit. Competition is as strong on the farm as in any other business. Power farming with a Samson Model "M" tractor is your salvation.

Don't delay the introduction of power methods. Your profits start the minute you put a Samson Model "M" tractor on your farm—not only in your field work, but in the operation of all your belt driven machinery.

Get ready for your spring work now.

Place your order with us for a Samson do it now and be assured of prompt and early delivery of one of the most economical tractors to be had.

WIND POWER OPERATES PRINTING PLANT

Wyndmere, S. D.—The Pioneer Printing Company of this place makes the claim that it is the only printing house in the world deriving its power from the wind.

About a month ago a deal was made with the Wind Electric Company whereby the Pioneer was given the use of an aerolite as a source of power to drive its machinery. Power, being the main factor upon which the business centers, was an all-important detail, hence the arrangement for an individual source of supply. During the month the power derived from this source has been in use the paper has had excellent service, having had ample power and light at all times and never a shut-down, night or day.

The aerolite has not only furnished ample power but has enabled the publishers of the Pioneer to add a typesetting machine to their equipment, which not only saves an immense amount of time and labor, but enables them to get their work out more promptly and, renders them more independent of labor, which is so hard to get at the present time. They believe that George Manikowski, the inventor of the aerolite, has a product of which he can justly be proud, and predict a bright future for the aerolite throughout the country.

The Pioneer Printing Company occupies a unique position in this connection, as they can safely say that they have the only printing office in the world deriving its power from the wind.

A BILLY SUNDAY JOKE

In a sermon at Cincinnati Billy Sunday told a joke to emphasize his argument for bigger collections. It was about an old farmer, who, after much urging, had been induced to give $5 to the collection in a church. A few days later the old farmer declared the Lord had ruined him after he had made the Lord a present of the money.

"He let my pigs get out last night—He's ruined me," said the farmer. "Huh, you can't expect God Almighty to sit all night and watch your pig for $5, can you?" he was told.

OLD KENTUCKY HOME OPTION TO BE CLOSED

Frankfort, Ky., March 20.—Funds sufficient to close the $10,000 option on Federal Hill, Nelson county, were reported at the meeting of the Old Kentucky Home Commission and it was decided to close the deal in the next few days. Plans for raising the remainder of the purchase price will be announced later.

Title to the 230 acres, now owned by Mrs. Madge Rowan Frost, will be taken in the name of the commission. Present at the meeting with Governor Morrow, were Robert Worth Bingham, A. T. Hert and Young E. Allison, Louisville; Ossa W. Stanley and Arch H. Pulliam, Bardonia, and Mrs. Clement French, Maysville.

The commissioners were enthusiastic over the number of voluntary contributions to the Stephen Foster memorial fund and they believe that the interest in preserving the "Old Kentucky Home" insures the early success of the campaign to complete the purchase price.

THOUGHT HOLDUP WAS JOKE; 3 MEN ROBBED

Newport, Ky., March 20.—Three bandits, wearing handkerchiefs which shielded part of their faces, entered the soft drink establishment of Peter Schmidt here and robbed the proprietor and two patrons.

Schmidt thought the bandits were joking and asked: "What are you trying to pull?" The leader of the trio spoke up and said, "If you think this is fun, just keep up the comedy." Schmidt then realized the bandits meant business and put up his hands. The bandits took $18 from Schmidt and $40 from the other two men. When the men left the place Schmidt obtained a gun and followed them to the street, where he exchanged shots with the robbers. None of the bullets took effect and the thugs escaped.

SECOND MAN ACCUSED IN MURDER OF GIRL IS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Booneville, Ky., March 18.—Harlan Baker, the second of five men to face trial charged with conspiracy to murder 17-year-old Bessie Allen, was sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury in Owensley Circuit Court. Grover Gabbard was given a life sentence in January. Four jurors on the first ballot voted to send Baker to the electric chair. Leonard Baker and Robert Clarke are yet to be tried. A fifth man, now a fugitive, is said actually to have fired the fatal shot when the girl, who has been forced to leave the home of her aunt at the point of a revolver, repulsed him, according to the statements of the four other men and the girl's dying statement.

MOONSHINE CAUSES SHOOTING OF OIL MAN

Winchester, March 20.—Clayton Stamper was brought from the oil fields in Lee county to a hospital here suffering with a bullet wound in the lungs. Dick Brewer, according to information reaching the authorities here, was charged with being responsible for Stamper's condition. He was arrested and taken to jail in Beatyville.

Information about events leading up to the shooting was meager but its inception was laid to moonshine whiskey.

U. S. WILL GIVE BUFFALO FOR PARK AT HENDERSON

RACE EQUALITY MYTH, SAYS TUSKEGEE HEAD

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 18.—Dr. R. R. Moton, principal of Tuskegee Institute, in an address to the students of the University of North Carolina here today, characterized social equality between the races as a myth and said that no southern negro wanted it or thought about it. "The negro race in the south has advanced further than any similar number of negroes anywhere on the globe," Dr. Moton declared, "because it has had the privilege of coming into contact with the white people of the south."

"To the southern white people we owe our language and our religion, all that we have learned and all that we have advanced in civilization."

The salvation of the black race, continued Dr. Moton, lies in greater industry, greater co-operation among negroes, and hard, intelligent work. "The rural sections of the south are the best places for negroes to live. Negroes have shown that they can farm successfully. I hope more of them will do it in the future."

SOUNDS SUSPICIOUS

Johnson had been one of the most diligent church workers in his town. When the war came he enlisted and came back a wiser, if not a sadder man.

It was the first Sunday, and Johnson had attended church from force of habit. It had been a long and tedious sermon but at the close, the minister, seeing his old parishioner with eyes closed as if in meditation, said:

"We will close the service with prayer. Mr. Johnson, will you lead?"

Johnson snapped into it with a start: "The devil I will," he snorted. "I just deal."

LAVINIA BRAND

By ELIZABETH M. LEE.

(Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Susan Mary Smith became Susan Mary Evans, or, as she preferred it, Mrs. Peter, pretty nearly everything was changed, as well as her name. She had always thought Hinsville was a darling place to live, but now that they had come to West Greendale, she was not quite so sure about anything, for in West Greendale everything was different.

Of course, there was Peter, always there was dear Peter, but even Peter of late had begun to change. He was preoccupied and absent-minded, and as long as she could Susan Mary loyally excused it on the grounds that, of course, the office manager of the biggest bakery for miles around would have to be absent-minded. If he didn't have a worried, careworn expression, argued Susan Mary determinedly, he wouldn't be working, and if he weren't working, he wouldn't be thinking about what happiness he could bring her.

So it was all for her, she thought defiantly, until one awful day when she was tidying Peter's desk in the den, a bit of work she particularly adored. Sorting out the envelopes of different sizes, she had dropped a bit of paper with a scribble of Peter's writing on it. She read it once, twice, and even a third time, and each time her world got blacker, for the writing on the paper said:

"Lavinia Brand."

Now who could Lavinia Brand be? Susan Mary sat down on the uncomfortable edge of a chair and thought and thought, and the more she thought, the more certain she became. For up in Hinsville there was a family by the name of Brandt, and one of the daughters had gone to school with her. What could be more natural than in these days of anti-everything that sounded German the family had dropped the obnoxious "t" and become plain Brand? And that girl—her name began with L, she was sure. Loretta, Leonora—what was it?

"I'm p-p-positive it's Lavinia," yelled Susan Mary, and with a sudden, fierce little gesture she tore the offending slip of paper in a hundred pieces.

Then one morning a bit of paper fell out of Peter's coat pocket as he pulled out his handkerchief, and Susan Mary, picking it up, inquired innocently as to what it was, knowing perfectly well that it was "That Name."

With an expression almost guilty Peter snatched it and crammed it back in his pocket, hurriedly telling Susan Mary that it was nothing at all and it was very late and he must hurry or he would miss the car.

The climax came that afternoon when Peter called up and told her that he was bringing Mr. Grayson to supper. Mr. Grayson was the manager, and Peter worshiped him.

Of course everything went beautifully. Susan Mary was too proud to let Mr. Grayson know that there had been any suspicion of coldness between Peter and herself, and she was honey-sweet to both the men. Peter was a bit puzzled, for the atmosphere of late had been decidedly frigid, and, manlike, he put the crowning touch upon it all. As Mr. Grayson was leaving Peter went out to the hall with him, and stood talking in a low voice, but not quite so low but what Susan Mary could hear the manager's voice.

"And Lavinia Brand?" And then Peter's voice, worried, hasty—"For heaven's sake—my wife doesn't know anything about that!"

Quite convinced that her heart was broken, Susan Mary still bided her time.

She had become quite resigned to the bits of paper floating around everywhere, and she was really very calm and cool and collected when Peter called her up and told her that he was bringing Lavinia Brand home that evening.

"Yes, I remember her," said Susan Mary sweetly, and was rewarded by a burst of laughter from the other end, and, "Oh, Lord! You remember her?" and then the receiver clicked aggravatingly.

But Peter came alone. Only he carried a bundle, which he waved at her as she stood on the piazza, and then, wondering at the exaltation in his face, she felt herself picked up bodily in his arms, and heard only a confused—"Darling! Lavinia Brand—success—fortune's made—" before she had sense enough to disengage herself and demand hysterically what it all meant.

"Here's what it means!" cried Peter joyously, waving the package again, and when at last they were safely indoors he opened it, talking all the while. "You see, Grayson wanted some other line besides just bread and rolls, and I sent up to mother for that recipe for crullers she used to make—you know, dear—and when she sent it back, and they enlarged it, we had to have some kind of a name for them, and because it was she who did it, I took her name, and we called them Lavinia Brand—you know her name is Lavinia. And we were scared stiff that the other chaps would get hold of it somehow, and we had to keep it such a secret. I couldn't even tell you about it, and I've been so darned worried."

Susan Mary flung her arms around his neck and hid her face on his shoulder. "Oh, Peter," she cried, "to think that I was jealous of her!"
